Background

For more than two decades, Gerald Le Van has successfully resolved family disputes about wealth and business, earning an international reputation for preventing family lawsuits. As a distinguished trust and estates lawyer, he understands the practicalities of wealth and business; as a sensitive mediator, he understands family dynamics and family peacekeeping.

He serves on the editorial board of two national magazines, has written countless articles and authored six books, including "The Survival Guide for Business Families", and "Healthy Wealth in Families". Often quoted in the business press, he speaks frequently to business and professional groups.
